Wilson Foundation Fellowship Nominations Due Tomorrow

The deadline for nominations to the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation is tomorrow.

Approximately 20 nominations have been made on campus, Dr. Leslie A. Fiedler, representative for the foundation on campus, said. He said a more accurate count will be possible when all nominations have been returned from the chairman of the region.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation was established by Princeton University in 1945. The fellowships were underwritten jointly by the 37 universities making up the Association of American Universities, the Carnegie Corporation, the General Education Board. In 1957 the number of fellowships was increased to 1,000 a year when the Ford Foundation provided a grant.

The Foundation encourages promising men and women to consider careers as college teachers. The Foundation supports students interested in careers in the humanities and social sciences; however exceptional cases are considered in other fields. The award is given for the first year of graduate study.

The Foundation also makes direct grants to graduate schools at which Woodrow Wilson fellows are enrolled. These grants are used to support graduate students beyond the first year of study and are administered by the individual universities.

Lodge Will Serve Meals to Alumni

Approximately 1200 extra meals will be served to homecoming visitors this weekend, according to Mrs. D. Gertrude Chamberlain, Director of Food Services.

Six hundred alumni and faculty members will eat lunch Saturday at the Field House, she said.

Sixty to eighty members of the Executive Committee and Endowment Fund will be served a buffet luncheon at noon today and graduates of 1909 and 1934 will have class dinners in the Lodge tonight.

Lunch will be served to the 500 high school bandmen expected to march in the parade

Two-Thirds of Century Parade Will Terminate at Field House

Tomorrow's Homecoming parade portraying two-thirds of a century at the University will leave the NP Depot at 10 a.m. and proceed south on Higgins Avenue to University Avenue, Nelson H. Fritz, Homecoming parade chairman, said yesterday.

The Homecoming parade will be a colorful spectacle of floats with the lead float carrying the beautiful Homecoming queen and her court.

The vehicles in the parade will be in their respective starting positions by 9:30 a.m. and the parade will start promptly at 10 a.m. A Spur and Bear Paw will escort each float and will carry the organizations banner.

Living groups that are constructing floats for the parade are Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Kappa, Elrod Hall and Kappa Alpha Theta, Sigma Nu and Delta Delta Delta, Delta Sigma Phi and Alpha Phi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Turner Hall, Phi Sigma Kappa and North Corbin Hall, Sigma Chi and Synadelphic, Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Gamma, Craig Hall and Corbin Hall, Theta Chi and Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Phi Delta Theta and Brantly Hall.

The Air Force, Kams and Dregs, Marine Reserves, Pharmacy and Forestry floats will be entered in the schools and departments sections of the parade.

At the completion of the Homecoming parade all floats will be driven on to the track surrounding the football field in the University stadium. The floats will remain in these positions until 15 minutes before the Grizzly-Ram football game. At this time the floats will leave the field.

The awards for the 1st, 2nd and 3rd place floats from the living groups will be bronze cups mounted on a walnut stand. The awards for the winning floats in the schools and departments for the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place floats will be a gold plaque mounted on walnut stands.

The living groups that won the 1958 Homecoming Parade were: Phi Delta Theta and Turner Hall, 1st place; Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Gamma, 2nd place; and Elrod Hall and Delta Delta Delta, 3rd place.

The schools and departments that also won were the School of Forestry, 1st place; and the Air Force Reserve Officer and Training Corps, 2nd place.

Alpha Phi Omega To Produce Series Of TV Programs

A series of "Public Service" TV shows will be produced soon by Alpha Tau Omega, campus service organization of former Boy Scouts.

The shows will consist of scouters or people affiliated with scouts from western Montana talking on scouting subjects. The shows will be every Wednesday night from 6 to 6:15 on Station KMSO.

Alpha Phi Omega reactivated its chapter two weeks ago. It was disbanded in 1954.

The club plans to work with the University Maintenance Department on some project to benefit the students.

The club also plans to decorate a Christmas tree in the middle of the oval sometime in December.

Soprano Soloist Will Be Featured At Faculty Recital

Selections from Bononcini, Bach, Handel, Mozart, Debussy, Strauss, Ginnini, Barber and Eversole will be heard Sunday at the faculty recital featuring soprano soloist Miss Jane Hevener of the music school.

The recital will be at 8:15 p.m. in the recital hall of the music school.

Miss Hevener received her degree at the College-Conservatory of Cincinnati and was soloist for the Lima Ohio Symphony. She was also guest soloist for the West Hills high school of Cincinnati when they were on tour. Miss Hevener is now teaching voice at the Montana State University School of Music.

The pianist for the recital will be Mrs. Sylvia Eversole who is also composer of "Triad," one of the selections for the recital.

World News Roundup...

Nationalist Chinese Charge Russia With Arms Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nationalist China charged yesterday that Russia has not changed its position on disarmament control which has deadlocked 14 years of arms talks.

Dr. H. R. Wei, Chinese veteran expert on disarmament and nuclear weapons, made the statement in the General Assembly's main political committee, debating a joint arms resolution sponsored by all 82 members of the United Nations.

The measure would send all arms plans to the new 10-power disarmament committee at Geneva next year and withhold endorsement of any particular idea. It is scheduled to be voted on in committee next Monday and will go shortly thereafter to the General Assembly for final approval.

Since 1945, Wei told the committee, Soviet refusal to accept inspection and control has prevented agreement of disarmament proposals adopted by an overwhelming majority of the Assembly. Had they been accepted, he said, "there would not be an arms race today."

Grizzly-Bobcat Runners Will Compete Tomorrow

A cross-country race will be run at the University golf course at 11 a.m. Saturday against the Montana State College. The race will begin at the ninth hole and cover about three miles.

Bill Anderson, Art DeVries and Gary Wojtowick will compete for the University. Terry Jansen will be the principal contender from MSC.

Idaho State College has been invited, but no final answer has been received Greeks To March In Torch Parade Up University Ave.

The Torch Parade will start at 6:45 tonight at the Higgins Avenue High School and proceed from Gerald Avenue to the ASMSU pep rally at the Field House.

Each living group will provide 15 torches and join the parade as it passes each house. The parade will end at the Field House where a bonfire will be lighted.

The coronation of the Homecoming queen by Dr. H. K. Newburn at the SOS will follow the Torch Parade. The queen will be awarded a trophy and certificate. R. H. Robinson, Kalispell attorney, will be the principal speaker at the SOS.

A LINE ON HOMECOMING—The University's head football coach Ray Jenkins seems more than happy as this year's candidates for homecoming

Changed, but Still the Same

Every year at Homecoming we hear two comments from returning alumni. The first asks, "What have they done?" the second says, "Same old place."

Both comments are true of Montana State University in 1959. Alumni who have been away from the campus for many years will find many new buildings including the Field House, the new Family Housing Apartments, the Liberal Arts Building and the new men's and women's dormitories. But still, the physical plant, while it has expanded in many ways, remains much the same. The Oval is still with us as are many of the older buildings such as Main Hall and the Law School.

But more important, returning alumni, regardless of their date of graduation, will find a new academic atmosphere at the University. The new president, Dr. H. K. Newburn, has installed a "program of excellence" that will strive to bring all phases of University activities, with emphasis on the academic to the point of perfection. This program is not intended to bring an immediate expansion to the fields of study offered by the University, but rather to do the most with what we have.

The University is a small institution and this philosophy seems logical and good. We are certain that it will prove most successful. When the University finds time to add to its curriculum, we feel it will be able to do it and keep its standards of excellence.

The state of Montana and the University's alumni can be proud of Montana State University now and in years to come.

Maybe Not So Good

Yesterday's action by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in placing Montana State College and the University of Wyoming on probation for two and one years respectively was not wholly unexpected. Both schools have long been rumored to have violated regulations pertaining to recruiting as well as other regulations. We have for some time felt that neither school, while perhaps living up to the letter of the law, abided by the spirit of the law.

Montana State College is not a member of a conference. Its football team consequently has far more financial freedom than the University has. Wyoming, which uses its state's oil industry as an angel to back winning football teams, also has far more financial opportunities to develop a winning football team than the University.

We know, for instance, that the maintenance department at the State College relieves its Athletic Department of a sixty thousand dollar bill every year. This money is used to finance football scholarships.

We also know that the State College conducts, if you will, raids on other colleges and junior colleges in search of talent.

We know too that the State College is not too particular about the academic records of its athletes. For example, a Butte High School athlete named Bill Cords was offered a scholarship by the State College about the middle of September. Cords accepted the scholarship and we do not blame him for doing so. But, at the time he was offered the scholarship, and when he accepted it, he and the State College were both well aware of the fact that Cords graduated in the lower third of his high school class.

The Skyline conference of which Montana is a member, requires that money used to finance an athletic scholarship from the Athletic Department, either by donations to the department or by money included in its budget. Also, only those athletes who have proven themselves capable of meeting university academic requirements are eligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics.

We do not advocate increasing individual benefits to athletes, raiding other schools in search of hired help or sacrificing academic ability for athletic ability.

Nor do we advocate an athletic season with one purpose, that being devoting the season to a victory over an individual school for the purpose of prestige. We feel that the State College is guilty of this. The banner in their field house bearing the words "Beat the Grizzlies" appears to be ample proof that the State College points toward the University every year. We do not feel this is a healthy athletic attitude.

It's nice to have a rivalry with the State College. It's an old and established tradition. But, on the other hand, so long as either or both schools, persist in the idea that a season as success depends on the outcome of a single game, both are going to be the loser. Inter-school rivalries of this nature have resulted on riots in many parts of the country. Last year, the affair following the Bobcat game here was one of the biggest black eyes the University, and the College, suffered all year.

We do not feel that the University can profit from continuing a rivalry with the State College, or perhaps Wyoming, while aid contrary to NCAA and conference regulations is given athletes at the two schools. Nor do we feel that the attitudes of the State College contribute to improving relations between the schools and the State of Montana.

Little Man on Campus

by Dick Bibler

"SOMETIMES I THINK THE PRESIDENT KEEPS TOO CLOSE TABS ON THE FACULTY."

Rod Fisher:

SCENE: Office of the president, western land grant university.

TIME: A bygone era when the athletic machine was still spring-wound on most campuses.

As the scene opens, the president is discussing an unusual proposition presented by Professor Amblestrait. The professor has just suggested that the university sponsor a football team.

Pres: Football? My dear professor, I'm afraid you are talking nonsense. I've never heard of it.

Prof: But sir, it's the coming thing all over the country. It's a spectator sport played with...

Pres: Yes, yes, we've been through that once. But what possible connection could it have with an academic institution such as this?

Prof: Don't you see sir, it would give the students a wholesome extra-curricular activity.

Pres: But the students are too busy to handle the extra-curricular activities that exist. If we start this football business we might end up having to hire people to keep it going.

Prof: Oh no, sir, that would never happen... never!

Pres: But my dear Amblestrait, have you thought of the alumni? Why they would never condone such a thing. Once they found we had sullied our pool of knowledge with the grime and grit of the grid, well, I'm afraid they would march on us en masse.

Prof: Yes, that would probably be so... but if we were consistent winners, they might put up with it.

Pres: And what makes you think we would be consistent winners?

Prof: We're a cinch, sir. We've got some great material coming up... inexperienced now of course, but in a couple of years...

Pres: Yes, yes, Amblestrait. But what of the cost? Remember we have an obligation to our state to provide free education to those eligible. We can't undertake any program that might force up costs.

Prof: Cost? Why pshaw sir, it seems fairly obvious to me that the sport would maintain itself on a mere pittance... perhaps even provide a return. The only cost I can think of right now would be $1.89 for a ball.

Pres: Where would the games be played, professor?

Prof: Just any old place at all, sir. I was thinking perhaps that we might use the oval-shaped pasture, if we can persuade Professor Grigsby to graze his horse elsewhere.

Pres: Come, come, now. Surely you're not thinking of inconveniencing Professor Grigsby's horse for this foolishness. If the game is to be played, it will have to be played out back.

Prof: Oh, thank you sir... my heart is full sir. (Backs toward door dabbing at eyes.)

Pres: Hold on professor. I said IF. It's hard for me to reconcile this activity with the academic function this university was set up to perform. As you must realize Amblestrait, this would be quite a departure. Students come here now, as I am sure they always will, expecting an intellectual environment of study, cogitation, and high-level discussion. This football you speak of might become a distracting influence.

Prof: Oh I'm quite sure you're wrong there, sir. We will keep it very inconspicuous... no one will even know what we are about.

Pres: And who are the contestants to be? I suppose you will be in here in a few weeks requesting travel funds for a match at the State College for Cow and Sow Husbandry.

Prof: (Chuckles) Heh, heh, why sir that won't be the case at all. This will be strictly an intramural program, and I guarantee sir... mind you, I guarantee... that this program will neither cause you undue trouble, nor cost the university more than a trivial amount.

Pres: All right, Amblestrait. Set up your confounded program. I seriously doubt if you will find many people interested in such shenanigans at the university level. I predict that the whole business will be forgotten in a week or two.

Lots of Time

With the controversy over students walking on the grass and with the twine fence built around the Oval, did you ever stop to realize that there are 659 man sized and 800 women sized steps between the third floor of the Journalism Building and the third floor of the Liberal Arts Building? This is the number of steps if you travel by the sidewalk route. Men who cut across the Oval take 465 steps; women take 580 steps.

The time element becomes important on this trip. It requires 2 minutes and 25.3 seconds longer to go around the Oval than to cross it.

Now lets us consider the plight of the home economics major who is forced to run from her 8 a.m. nutrition class to her 9 a.m. inorganic chemistry laboratory. Her jaunt from the Women's Center, second floor, to the fourth floor of the Chemistry-Pharmacy Building will take 7 minutes and 26 seconds if she abides by the suggestions to "keep off the lawn." If she hurries just a little faster and sneaks across the Oval, she can reach her class room in only 6 minutes and 1.3 seconds.

There are also some ROTC men who also happen to be business majors. They have to hurry between "Introduction to the Army" and "Financial Organization." Six minutes and 20.6 seconds is the safe, sane, law-abiding time for them, but they can save a precious 1 minute and 3.1 seconds if they dash across the Oval and Library lawns.

These timings were not made during regular class breaks, and hence there was no traffic to slow down the timing process. There was no time counted for putting on coats, collecting books, or for handing in assignments at the end of the period. No allowances were made for the professors who just have to squeeze a few more paragraphs into the days lecture.

Time yourself sometime when you go from class to class. You may be able to set a new Men's Gym to Music Building track record. Or count your steps between classes—if you have time.

Foresters' Project Had Some Help, Need Some More

Although the Forestry Club was originally responsible for the defacing of the "M" by constructing a neat "pine tree" beneath it, the Club cannot be held accountable for the mess that was created later by over-zealous fraternities and student politicians.

The Forestry Club had planned to remove the "pine tree" and reconstruct the "M" Wednesday night, Oct. 28, but because of adverse weather conditions the project was postponed to Saturday morning.

We would like to invite those candidates who used Mt. Sentinel for a campaign poster and those fraternities who delicately placed their Greek letters on the mountain to meet at the Forestry Building Saturday morning, Oct. 31, at 7:45 a.m. and assist the Foresters in reconstructing the "M."

MSU 1959 Homecoming Queen Will Be Crowned Tonight at SOS

By PAT ASHALL

As the strains of "Old College Chums" drift across the campus, another "Singing on the Steps" will come to a close. Tonight, the 1959 Homecoming queen will be crowned at the "SOS", one of the oldest campus traditions.

"Singing on the Steps" came into being about 1903 when the University consisted of Main Hall and two other buildings.

At that time, most of the University students lived in Missoula and there were few places for them to congregate.

After a wooden walk was built from Higgins Avenue to the University, Main Hall steps became an ideal meeting place. Around 7:30 p.m., a few students would gather on the steps for a bull session.

Later, Prof. Robert Sibley, first dean of the engineering school, would join the students as their group leader. One day, Prof. Sibley suggested that the students sing the words to "Old College Chums" which he had written. From then on, the students sang "Old College Chums" just before they left for home. This was the beginning of "Singing on the Steps."

As the students kept coming in increasing numbers to the SOS, it became customary to have a master of ceremonies and a guest speaker. Later, the SOS became a pep rally and the place where new members of organizations were tapped.

According to Nelson Fritz, a 1929 University graduate, the students chose a yell king who was responsible for the SOS. Mr. Fritz, who was the yell king here from 1927-1929, said the yell king always outlined the SOS program and made certain the students knew about it.

Mr. Fritz said that until 1941, the University had a bell which rang the hours and half hours. When the bell rang 7:30 p.m., the Master of Ceremonies, began the program.

"At the first stroke of eight," Mr. Fritz said, "everything became silent and remained silent until the clock struck the final stroke." Then, he said, the students stood in place and sang both verses of "Old College Chums."

When both verses were complete, Mr. Fritz said, the students walked away in complete silence. This silence remained until they were half way across the campus.

Mr. Fritz said it was not customary to crown the queen at SOS until the University entered the Skyline Conference. Since the Conference only allows a 15-minute half-time, the homecoming chairmen thought it better to crown the queen at a special SOS ceremony.

Prof Sibley returned to Missoula for the 1956 Homecoming and conducted his last "Singing on the Steps." He died in Paris, France, two years later.

ROBERT SIBLEY

At the memorial service held for him at Tilden Regional Park in Berkeley, Calif., it was said that "he lived his life vigorously as a tribute to all things he found to be good and beautiful. He loved people, especially young people." The young men and women who have been his pupils taught not only by what he told them, but also by what he demonstrated in appreciation, imagination and enthusiasm."

Each year, at the final SOS, the Sibley award is presented to the student who does the most to uphold campus traditions. Last year, Sally Harris, now Associated Women Student's president, received the award.

Good Weather Predicted For Homecoming Events

Football fans will watch tomorrow's Homecoming game, under partly sunny skies, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Weather for the weekend will be "steady but improving," the weatherman said yesterday. Today will be cool with partly cloudy skies and warming trends are expected Saturday, he said.

Radio Program Of Homecoming To Be Recorded

"Homecoming—1959," a radio program highlighting the major events of MSU's Homecoming weekend will be produced under the auspices of the Radio-TV Workshop.

Members of the workshop will record this weekend's activities: The noise parade, SOS and crowning of the queen, pep rally, a description of the parade, and the game. The crew will also interview alumni.

The program will be compiled from the various tape recordings and will be narrated by the Homecoming queen. Tape recordings of the program will be distributed to almost every radio station in the state, John Honey, program director said yesterday.

Joe Holly and Don Labbe will describe the parade. Others working on program production are Mike Stephens, Terry Rieger, Rick Thorwardson, Brian Alexander and Dave Hallecker.

The radio and television workshop is directed by Erling S. Jorgensen, associate professor of journalism.

Two Fellowships Will Be Awarded

Two $500 graduate fellowships will be awarded by the National Council of Mortar Board for the academic year 1960-61.

One fellowship will be awarded to an active member of a 1959-60 Mortar Board chapter and the other will go to an alumna or an active member.

The fellowships are named for a former National President of Mortar Board, Katherine Willis Coleman. They have been awarded for several years to active members of the organization as an aid to graduate study.

Arnold Bolle Heads Project In Special Forestry Research

Students doing graduate work in the MSU School of Forestry now have the opportunity to participate in a special research project headed by Arnold W. Bolle, Associate Professor of Forestry.

According to Mr. Bolle, whose official title is Project Coordinator, the purpose of the project is to "study the problems of multiple-use management in an area where timber and recreation are the main uses, and to develop a method whereby the returns from both these uses may be maximized."

The area being studied is the North Fork of the Flathead River, including Glacier National Park, a portion of the Flathead National Forest and adjacent private and state lands.

The project is the cooperative effort of Montana State University, Harvard University, the National Park Service, the State and National Forest Service, the Fish and Game Department and others, including private and community organizations.

The state and national agencies are interested in the study because it deals with a common and growing problem in the West and they hope that the findings may set a pattern for the solution of similar problems elsewhere. The universities' interest in the three years project is partly from the standpoint of developing knowledge and new methods of analysis which would be of use to the public, and also as it serves as training for graduate students.

Mr. Bolle did research on the project in the Seminar of Land Use and Conservation in the School of Public Administration at Harvard University where he this year completed work for his doctor's degree.

He received his bachelor's degree in Forestry from MSU in 1937 and was employed by the United State Department of Agriculture for 16 years. He joined the staff at MSU in the fall of 1955.

SOVIET CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF ACTIVE MOON VOLCANO

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet astronomer said yesterday he had obtained new proof that a volcano on the Moon was active.

Astronomer Nikolai Kozyrev of the Pulkovo Observatory said he had obtained another spectrogram of the central peak of the Alphonse Crater on the Moon which registered "unusual" activity, the official news agency Tass reported from Leningrad.

Kozyrev late last year claimed to have discovered that this peak was an active volcano. Western scientists tended to discount the claim, noting that it ran counter to most accepted theories

Coach of Year Award May Go Anywhere in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Every section has one or more standout candidates for college football's "Coach of the Year," an award voted annually by the coaches themselves.

And for more than a few it's a critical weekend coming up—particularly for 1958 winner Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State and Johnny Vaught of Mississippi. They match wits and powerhouse teams at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday night.

With a little more than a month to go, there's an unusually long list of candidates but that's a cinch to be pared to an elite group by December when the coaches vote in the annual poll conducted by the New York World-Telegram and Sun and Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Among the prospects:
East—Floyd Schwartzwalder of Syracuse, Rip Engle of Penn State, Jordan Olivar of Yale, and Davey Nelson of Delaware.

Midwest—Ara Parseghian of Northwestern.

South—Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State and Johnny Vaught of Mississippi.

Southwest—Darrell Royal of Texas.

Far West—Don Clark of Southern California.

RIP ENGLE NAMED COACH FOR COPPER BOWL GAME

PHOENIX (UPI)—Charles A. (Rip) Engle of Penn State was named yesterday co-coach of the National All-Stars for the Copper Bowl Charity Football Game Dec. 26.

Engle will join with Don Clark of the University of Southern California in piloting the Nationals against the Southwest All-Stars in the game at the Arizona State University stadium in nearby Tempe.

Frank Kush of Arizona State and Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy will be mentors of the southern team.

Montana's Punter Is Kicking Football With Nation's Best

Despite suffering a bruised shoulder in last Saturday's game against New Mexico, Montana punter Paul Gustafson still ranks among the best six booters in the nation.

Gustafson didn't punt against the Lobos, retaining a 45.4 yard average on 16 kicks this season. The sophomore halfback ranks sixth nationally and is second in the Skyline. He's the best Grizzly punter since Bud Bellis of Helena averaged 43 yards per punt in 1952.

Two more Grizzlies were in the grid spotlight this week. Quarterback Bobby O'Billovich is leading Skyline passer and wingman John Lands ranks as the conference's top pass receiver.

Leahy Becomes Civic Minded Insists Players Be Boy Scouts

NEW YORK, (UPI) — Frank Leahy, so pessimistic as a college football coach that he once said his Notre Dame team might not make a first down, now is so optimistic about the pro game that he figures it might cure juvenile delinquency.

Leahy is the general manager of the Los Angeles Chargers of the new American Football League. When he was introduced to reporters last night by league founder Lamar Hunt, Leahy turned on the kind of oration that helped spark the fighting Irish to four national championships.

"I feel wonderful about this pro football. I feel there's no doubt we'll make that first down this time," Leahy said, flashing his Irish grin.

Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns introduced a new brand of "off-the-field gentlemen" into pro football in the late 1940's. Now Leahy wants to introduce "togetherness on a massive scale in the American Football League.

"We want all the boys who play for our Los Angeles team to become residents of the area," Leahy said. "We want each player well acquainted in his chosen suburb. We want each one to be active in all local affairs, particularly in those which involve youngsters.

"We want our players to put in a lot of hours each month at Boy Scout meetings. We're not just going to suggest this. We're going to insist upon it. If any player can't make a speech, we'll have a public relations man write it for him.

"We feel pro football has arrived. Pro football attendance is growing. Attendance at college games is on the downgrade. Look up how many boys have become doctors, dentists and lawyers while playing pro football.

"Our new league will give even more boys a chance to get into pro football. We're going to try to provide employment in Los Angeles for every man on our team on a year-around basis. If a boy is injured playing football, he keeps his other job so long as he satisfies his employer."

Leahy's oration was the high point of a press conference following a meeting at which officials commissioner, the awarding of an eighth franchise and draft policies.

CHARLIE DRESSEN EXPECTS MANY TRADES THIS YEAR

(UPI)—Charlie Dessen, new manager for the Milwaukee Braves, said here last night he expected some "real big trades" in the major leagues this year.

Dessen, speaking before some 300 persons at a dinner meeting, was non-committal about what might be ahead for the Milwaukee lineups. He said he wanted to "talk to the players individually" before making any decisions.

The new pilot, who said the Milwaukee offer came as a complete surprise to him, asserted that he and the Braves owners were "in complete mutual agreement" on what the team needs.
